

ABOUT FURS,

By C. C. Shayne.

Notwithstanding the warm weather during the past two weeks, the demand for fur garments to order continues.

Cold weather will come, and I would advise ladies who have not placed their orders to do so before the cold weather sets in. The best time to place orders or buy goods is during the periods when the stores are not well crowded.

PERSIAN LAMB (Lamb's Head). I have just received a fresh shipment of Persian Dyed Persian Lamb Skins. They are beautiful. They have a handsome gloss as any I have ever had. Ladies who intend placing orders for these fashionable goods ought to do so at once, after the skins have been sorted over, and the best picked out for early orders. It will not be possible to furnish as good later in the season. UP-TO-DATE JACKETS, $150, $175 AND $200.

Coats, $150 to $225. Broadtail (called Baby Lamb), $25 to $50 extra. I have sold all the $100 Persian Lamb Jackets advertised last week, and will have no more at that price this season. Have only the finer grade of Persian Lamb Skins in stock.

We are making a number of Persian Lamb and Broadtail Jackets to order, trimmed with Russian and Hudson Bay Sables, Mink and Chinchilla. These garments generally fit better when made to order, and there is no extra charge.

Note—I only handle the German Dyed Persian Lamb, which retains its pristine beauty for years.

SEALSKINS. Alaska seals caught on the Pribylov Islands, in Behring Sea, are the best; the pelts is stronger, the fur denser, handsomer and durable. I am making over to this season's style garments from those skins which I sold ten years ago, and can recommend them with confidence.

The new Jackets, $175, $225 and $275. Coats, $25 to $50 extra.

Extra long Coats in proportion. Note—I could sell Jackets of Lohor Island, Japan and Northwest Coast Seal for $80, $100 and $125; Coats from $100 to $150, but they do not wear satisfactorily, as they wear off at the edges quickly and after being worn a short time the skins could be sold from $5 to $12, whereas genuine Alaska Seal Muffs cost $20, $25 and $30. I have seen and handled Seal goods in London. I would sell them because they pay a larger profit than Alaska Seal, but they do not wear well, and for that reason I do not sell them.

OTTER. America surpasses all other nations in dressing and dyeing Otter and Beaver. Otter garments manufactured by me were awarded First Prizes at the World's Fair (as were also garments of Russian Sable, Mink, Seal and Persian Lamb). Otter is the handsomest and most durable of all furs. I am making over to this season's style Otter garments which I sold fifteen years ago, and they do not require redyeing. They stand rain and snow better than any other fur. Jackets, $250 to $400. Coats, $300, $400 and $500. Capes, Collarettes and Muffs in proportion.

RUSSIAN SABLE. It is evident that our people are prosperous, because there is more money invested in fine furs this season than for years. I have received more orders for Russian Sable Mantles, Capes, Collarettes, Scarfs, etc., in addition to the number of manufactured articles sold, than in any season up to this time since I have been in business. Many of the ladies who have purchased recently admit that they have looked around the market, but are satisfied that my goods are the best for the price, and some of my patrons who have recently returned from abroad state that I am giving better value in Sables for the money than any of the European houses. This is accounted for to some extent from the fact that I had nearly a quarter of a million of dollars' worth of furs on hand prior to the London March sales, when Russian Sable advanced 20 per cent, Hudson Bay 30 per cent, Mink 30 per cent, and other natural fur skins from 15 to 30 per cent.

For the first time in a number of years Americans can afford to sell Hudson Bay Sable, Mink, Lynx, Fox and other American products at lower prices than the European merchants, and if they do not take advantage of the opportunity when they can afford to sell at low prices they are to blame if they lose their trade. I will sell Mink, Hudson Bay Sables (three skins) at $25, $50, $75, $90, $125, $150 and $200, extra large Muffs in proportion. I have also decided to sell Sealskin and Persian Lamb, both of which are dyed in Europe, at European prices.

Note—It costs $25 more to produce an average Russian or Persian Lamb Coat in America than in Europe. This amount I will deduct from the usual profit in order to please ladies who have expected furs abroad, which they are better, more elegantly finished and better fitting. I am anxious to have Americans trade at home, and will do all I can to that end. Americans are patriotic, and would prefer to buy at home if they were convinced that they could do as well. I will convince them that they can buy furs from me at as low prices as at any other reliable houses in the world, and this season I am selling Hudson Bay Sable, Mink, Lynx, Fox and other American products at lower prices.

FURS SHOULD BE PROPERLY DRESSED.

Note—I have been thirty-five years in the fur trade, and my special attention to the cutting and dressing of furs. The party who does my work is well known and has the best fur dress in the world. When furs are properly dressed they retain their natural color and wear longer, than articles manufactured from poorly dressed skins, which have a dull appearance and are more liable to be injured.

I do not sell bleached or dyed Russian or Hudson Bay Sables. Ladies who have purchased them in Europe and elsewhere during the last few years complain that they have a peculiar shadowy appearance, and that the color is not the same as the fur before it was bleached. If a lady can afford to buy the genuine Sable, natural color, she will wear it longer, and it will retain its natural color, and she will receive the same price, and thus give entire satisfaction.

MINK A RELIABLE FUR. Handsome Mink Suits, Muff and Neck Piece to match, $75, $90, $140 to $175. Muffs, $12, $15, $18, $25, $35 and $50. Capes, Scarfs, Mantles and Victorines in proportion.

STONE MARTEN. Nicholas and La Rena Boas, $18, $25, $30 and $35. Victorines, Collarettes and Muffs in proportion.

GENUINE FURS.

Some of our most respected people desire to purchase a genuine fur article which will wear a few seasons at an economical price. Alaska Seal (Skinn) is the best fur for money. I have seen many people who have worn down or turned out of style seals and who have purchased genuine mink tails. Mink to match, complete set, $20. Collarettes, Victorines and Capes at corresponding prices.

Wool Seal, a genuine fur, is good for the money. Seal with a number of tails, and Muff, complete set, $15. Have also furs as low as $1, $4 and $5 for seals, and Muffs to match at corresponding prices.

FOX AND CHINCHILLA. A large assortment of Chinichilla, silver, natural, blue, grey, cream and all other kinds of Fox skins. White Fox and Chinchilla cost more than they should, but so long as they are in fashionable demand prices will be firm. I am, however, selling them at the lowest possible prices.

MEN'S FUR OVERCOATS.

Buy the best Overcoat to wear from $10 to $25.00. Mink lined from $125 up. Persian Lamb lined and trimmed, $250 up. Seal lined and trimmed, $250 to $2,500. Mink, Seal Overcoat trimmed, $500 to $1,500.

SWISS GATHER IN A GREAT CELEBRATION.

Golden Jubilee of Helvetic Lodge, No. 1, at Terrace Garden, Attracts Prominent Men.

The golden jubilee, or fiftieth anniversary, of the founding of Helvetic Lodge, No. 1, was celebrated at Terrace Garden last night. It was the most imposing and important Swiss festival ever held in this country, and to it came prominent natives of Switzerland from all over the United States and across the stage were the butlers of the various cantons. Some of those present wore the peasant costumes of their districts, with the white, stiff sleeves, the embroidered corsage and the fantastic head-dressing that are common to all the native costumes.

For more than a year preparations for the festival have been going on, and nearly every lodge in America was represented. Minister J. B. Pioda, the Swiss envoy to Washington, was the guest of honor, and there were many distinguished men from other cities.

A programme purely Swiss marked the formal part of the evening's entertainment. The address of welcome was delivered by Herr W. Schumpf after the orchestra had played the overture from "William Tell." The Schweizer Psalm, Switzerland's beautiful national anthem, was sung by a chorus of mixed voices, and was followed by a march of children in typical costumes representing characters and scenes famous in Swiss history. The march concluded with a tableau, "In Helvetia."

Frederick Hofacker sang "Die Lorelei" and several English songs that have been adopted in Switzerland. Frederick Hofacker is a member of Maurice Grant's company of grand opera singers, and has often been heard at the Metropolitan Opera House. Her competitors have been on her the title of "the Swiss Nightingale," and her songs brought forth enthusiastic applause and many accolades.

LOVE FOUND THE WAY TO HER PRISON.

Rescue of a Pretty Girl, Looked for Two Years in a Dark Attic, by Her Lover.

Florence, Oct. 21.—The little village of Chignolo Po, near Pavia, has been much wrought up by the discovery that a shoemaker of that place had kept a prisoner, in a small, dark attic, his pretty seventeen-year-old daughter. The man's name is Rossi. His daughter, Giuseppeina, was in love with a young man of the village. The father objected to her choice, and to prevent an elopement, he locked her up.

When the lover called he was told that the girl had gone to visit relatives in America. The girl was well fed and otherwise cared for, but in all the two years had not been able to communicate with the outside of her dark prison. The lover finally became suspicious that something was wrong, and after some very clever and difficult detective work discovered the whereabouts of Giuseppeina. Then he informed the police.

The father is now in prison, and the girl is being cared for. She and her liberator are soon to be married.

HURLED FROM A COACH IN COLLISION.

Hiram McKee, thirty years of age, of No. 344 West Forty-fourth street, was thrown from the coach he was driving yesterday morning by a collision with an elephant car at Fifty-ninth street and Fifth avenue. He received slight injuries and was taken to Presbyterian Hospital.

Uniforms for Correction Officials.

Commissioner of Correction Francis J. Lantry issued an order yesterday commanding the heads of all institutions in the department and officers to dress in uniform on November 1. The uniforms will consist of blue suits with brass buttons, with caps to match, the caps bearing the titles of the officials.

We devote our entire time and attention to buying and selling watches and jewelry. We don't do anything else. When we buy watches we know what we are getting, and when we guarantee a watch we know what we are talking about. That's why you are sure of the worth of these styles.

We make a specialty of repairing watches, clocks and jewelry of all kinds. We believe that our workmen are the most skilled ones that can be found in New York City. They are the best that we could find. Our prices for repairing cannot be duplicated for really first-class work anywhere in the city. The low rental which we pay for our store is an important factor in determining our prices for repairing.

One-Price Jewelry.—We sell jewelry at just about what some dealers have to pay for it. We have our own factory and make most of the jewelry that we sell. Small jewelers who do no manufacturing must necessarily buy either of the jobber or some manufacturer. We can make good jewelry just as cheaply as any other manufacturer. We charge but little more for goods sold over our counter than other manufacturers charge the jobber who sells to the small jewellers.

We have hundreds of designs in Rings that are not shown here. We show moderate-priced goods just to give you a hint of the values to expect at higher prices.

Nature, if left to herself, will do whole lot toward repairing injured portions of the body. But when the muscles of the eye have been strained Nature has to be assisted. There's no use waiting and "giving Nature a chance." The longer you wait the more your eyes will ache. The only way to stop it is to get a good pair of eyeglasses to remove the strain. Get them of us and you'll be sure they will fit, as our opticians are recognized experts.
